Statement of Claim in support of Joseph Gregory Hallett declares the Illegitimate Conception of King George V of the United Kingdom

The Declarant is Joseph Gregory Hallett.

The Respondents are Her Majesty The Queen a.k.a. Queen Elizabeth II, Elizabeth Alexandra Mary Mountbatten, Elizabeth Alexandra Mary Battenberg, Elizabeth Alexandra Mary Windsor, Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, Philip Mountbatten, KG, Princess Anne, KG, Prince Andrew, Duke of York, KG, Prince Edward, Earl of Wessex, KG, Princess Beatrice of York, Princess Eugenie of York, Prince Charles, Prince of Wales, Duke of Cornwall, KG, Camilla, Duchess of Cornwall, Duchess of Rothesay, GCVO, Prince William, Duke of Cambridge, KG, Catherine, Duchess of Cambridge, GCVO, Prince Henry, Duke of Sussex, KCVO ADC, Meghan, Duchess of Sussex, Prince Edward, Earl of Wessex, KG, Sophie, Countess of Wessex, GCVO, Prince Richard, Duke of Gloucester, KG, Prince Edward, Duke of Kent, KG, Katharine, Duchess of Kent, The Archbishop of Canterbury, Justin Wellby, Prime Minister of the United Kingdom, Alexander Boris de Pfeffel Johnson, President of Russia Vladimir Putin, and President of the United States Donald John Trump.

Joseph Gregory Hallett declares that King George V of the United Kingdom illegitimate. His biological father was not Albert Edward, Bertie, Prince of Wales, or Edward VII, but Tsesarevich 'Sasha' Alexander (1845–94) who became Tsar Alexander III of Russia.

King George V of the United Kingdom and the British Dominions was born George Frederick Ernest Albert, b. 3 June 1865–d. 20 January 1936. His parents were Alexandra, Princess of Wales, née Denmark, who became Queen consort of the United Kingdom, and purportedly Bertie, Prince of Wales b. 9 November 1841–d. 6 May 1910, who became King Edward VII of the United Kingdom and the British Dominions, Emperor of India, who ruled 22 January 1901–6 May 1910.

However, the siring father of King George V on 29 September 1864 was actually Tsesarevich 'Sasha' Alexander who then killed his elder brother Grand Duke Nicholas 'Nixa' and married his fiancée widow to become and Tsar Alexander III, and ruled 1881–94.

George V erroneously ruled the United Kingdom from 6 May 1910 to 20 January 1936.

The title in question is King of the United Kingdom and the British Dominions, Emperor of India, which George V erroneously ruled 6 May 1910 to 20 January 1936, when he was put to death, by his wife, Queen Mary, to stop him talking, and just before midnight to make the respectable papers on time.

Since George V was never King, and his elder brother, Prince Eddy was still alive, having faked his death on 14 January 1892, all United Kingdom titles since 6 May 1910 have been colour of law, and not real.

"Colour of law" means it is made up.

This title has since morphed into "Name ... of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland and of Her other Realms and Territories Queen".

"Queen" is now in the suffix position, meaning illegitimate, bankrupt, or delinquent.

The suffix Elizabeth II ... Queen, is further colour of law recorded as the prefix 'Monarch of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland', with further colour as 'Queen of the United Kingdom and the other Commonwealth realms'.

Queen Elizabeth II has the knowledge to understand the consequential facts presented here are real, verifiable, and verified, with the declaration that she has abrogated her contract terms with the Laws, Rules, Codes and Duties of any legitimate Crown Authority, and by this document is recognised as abdicated, void ab Initio, as though she was never Crowned, never wore the Crown, never sat over the Coronation Stone, and was never Queen, never Royal, never the granddaughter of the legitimate King George V, never the daughter of George, Duke of York, never the daughter of King George VI of the United Kingdom, and never had any right to claim the Throne and or Crown of the United Kingdom, the British Dominions, the Commonwealth, the Commonwealth of Nations, the United Kingdom and the British Dominions, the United Kingdom of Great Britain, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, nor of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and All Ireland, and by the Standing invested in the declarant Joseph Gregory Hallett, Queen Elizabeth II is once again struck with a Black Wand, and her Royal Style and Titles are rendered null and void.

"Challenges to the authority ... while not commonplace, are not unknown. 'If a person acts in an office in which the person is not entitled to act, the court may grant an injunction restraining the person from acting in that office, and declare the office to be vacant'." Source: Queensland Consolidated Acts, JUDICIAL REVIEW ACT 1991 - SECT 42, paraphrased.

This is a matter of great importance and unusual controversy, an event of considerable public concern, involving Letters Patent, requiring immense investigatory powers, involving a defined issue in a Monarchy, which should involve a formal public inquiry into the Head of State – usually the Sovereign – as to their Warranted terms of engagement, being a Patently Ambiguous connivance, fraud and forgery.

See Addendum One in support of Joseph Gregory Hallett declares the Illegitimate Conception of King George V of the United Kingdom, pages 1–24.

Affidavit in support of Joseph Gregory Hallett declares the Illegitimate Conception of King George V of the United Kingdom

Declarant Joseph Gregory Hallett on his Oath and Commercial Oath, proceeding in good faith, being of sound mind and body, states: the facts in the 'Statement of Claim in support of Joseph Gregory Hallett declares the Illegitimate Conception of King George V of the United Kingdom' and his 'Addendum One in support of Joseph Gregory Hallett declares the Illegitimate Conception of King George V of the United Kingdom', are true, correct, complete and not misleading to the best of Declarant's private firsthand knowledge and understanding, under penalty of International Commercial Law. The foundation of law and commerce exists in telling the whole truth as fully as possible. Truth is a valid statement of reality and is sovereign in commerce. The Courts cannot deny what has taken place, nor what is real. For the Courts to entrap a case into their system, void accessible remedies, turn a dispute into a controversy without end, refuse to keep an accurate Record such that the Court Record is unrecognisable from the material case, refuse to hear a case inside or outside the Court, and or the Court has done its best to "lett" or 'condemn' the case, then the Court has committed fraud and is no longer acting as a Court. A Nation without a viable Court is not a viable Nation, but is only a notion of a Nation, wherein all power participants are merely crisis actors working for Silent Weapons for Quiet Wars, where only the fraud is sacred. An unrebutted Affidavit is Judgment in Commerce to be acted upon. To date, the Respondents have failed to provide a Counter-Affidavit. Rather than rebuttal, the news they control has acted out in support where all the world has gone to Lent. A Judge cannot impair or expunge an Affidavit, nor its commercial process; nor can a person. Over some time, the due process of law has been subverted without remedy, and the Courts have failed such that The Law Society Gazette, Civil Procedure Rules and Practise Management have resorted to demanding The Declarant publish The Documents, using his Declaration and credible Affidavit as acknowledgment of position, ready to enact correction and remedy.

Joseph Gregory Hallett solemnly and sincerely declares his 'Statement of Claim in support of Joseph Gregory Hallett declares the Illegitimate Conception of King George V of the United Kingdom' and 'Addendum One in support of Joseph Gregory Hallett declares the Illegitimate Conception of King George V of the United Kingdom', are true and correct, affirmed on 1 November 2019, and registered on 17 November 2019 in the Common Law Court OTH / 19 / 50306, as attached, and uploaded onto social media and websites, as a Public Notice. This was done on A4 with rounded corners, and has now been redone on SRA4 cream linen paper rendering it live in the real world.

George Frederick Ernest Albert, b. 3 June 1865–d. 20 January 1936 who became King George V of the United Kingdom and the British Dominions, and ruled 6 May 1910 to 20 January 1936, was the biological son of Alexandra, Princess of Wales in 1863, née Denmark, who became Queen consort of the United Kingdom and Empress of India, 1901–10, and Tsesarevich 'Sasha' Alexander of Russia, b. 1845–d. 1894, who became Tsar Alexander III of Russia and ruled 13 March 1881 to 1 November 1894.

This Statement of Claim is declared. Under the Statutory Declarations Act 1835, The Respondents are required to challenge made point by point within seven days of Notice.

Addendum One in support of Joseph Gregory Hallett declares the Illegitimate Conception of King George V of the United Kingdom

This 1913 Berlin photo of Tsar Nicholas who ruled Russia, 1894–1917, and King George V who ruled the UK, 1910–36, have mothers who were sisters – Princess Dagmar, and Alexandra, Princess of Wales. 'Cousins' became the official excuse for their likeness, but in the reality of conceptions, they had the same father – Tsar 'Sasha' Alexander III, who ruled Russia 1881–94, making them first cousins who were half-brothers, so alike they wore each others uniforms.

The Russo-Danish takeover of the British Monarchy

Alexandra, Princess of Wales (1844–1925) was from Denmark. She hated the Germans and everything about them, including her mother-in-law, Queen Victoria, whose mother was German. Princess Alexandra passed this hatred of Germans onto her firstborn son, Prince Eddy (1864–92/1933+).

Tsar Nicholas II (R. 1894–1917) and King George V (R. 1910–36) have mothers who are sisters (Princess Dagmar & Princess Alexandra, PoW) and this became the official excuse for their likeness, but in the reality of conceptions, they had the same father – Tsesarevich 'Sasha' Alexander (1845–94) who became Tsar Alexander III (R. 1881–94).

After giving birth to the "backward" Prince Eddy two months premature on 8 January 1864, hating the Germans, hating and avoiding Bertie, Prince of Wales as sperm provider, Alexandra, Princess of Wales purposefully sabotaged the British Throne by conceiving her second child with Tsesarevich 'Sasha' Alexander (1845–94) whose elder brother, Grand Duke Tsesarevich Nicholas 'Nixa' Alexandrovich (1843–65) was the Heir Apparent to the Tsar of Russia, Alexander II (R. 1855–81).

Alexandra, Princess of Wales conceived a child that was to become King George V of England (b. 3 June 1865), but the father was not from England, and the child was conceived in Denmark.

The conception occurred 26–30 September 1864 at her younger sister's formal engagement betrothal to Grand Duke Tsesarevich Nicholas Alexandrovich of Russia at Bernstorff Palace, 6 miles north of Copenhagen, Denmark.

"September 1864" was a Black Moon month, and this made it an ideal time for conceiving a Monarch. A Black Moon month has Two New Moons in the same month.

Heir to the Russian throne, Grand Duke Tsesarevich 'Nixa', had fallen in love with photographs of Princess Maria 'Dagmar' Feodorovna of Denmark. He visited Copenhagen in August 1864, then wrote to his mother, Empress Maria Alexandrovna (40), on 24 August 1864: "Dagmar was more beautiful than I had imagined".

Grand Duke Tsesarevich 'Nixa' proposed to Dagmar on his 21st birthday, 20 September 1864 in the Bernstorff Palace Gardens.[1]

This was quickly followed by a formal betrothal that brought Alexandra, Princess of Wales (19) together with Tsesarevich 'Sasha' Alexander of Russia (20) as 'sister to the fiancée bride' and 'brother to the fiancé groom'. Both were currently from out of town, both were familiar with the surroundings, and each other, since their families had holidayed together in Denmark many times and were often photographed together.

They were given a time frame from 20–30 September 1864 to conceive under the Black Moon Month, but first they had to get rid of Bertie, Prince of Wales (King Edward VII) so the Ship's Record would later confirm the English Prince George V was born illegitimate.

Nixa's proposal on 20 September 1864 was quickly followed by the formal betrothal, which was quickly followed by a conception, 26–30 September 1864. However it was not the Fiancé or Fiancée who conceived, but their brother and sister.

Tsesarevich 'Sasha' Alexander of Russia sired an illegitimate child with Alexandra, Princess of Wales, of England, rendering her pregnant with the future King George V of the United Kingdom and the British Dominions, Emperor of India (R. 1910–36).

The newly engaged Grand Duke Tsesarevich 'Nixa' Nicholas then left Denmark by paddle steamer for Genoa in Italy, and Nice in the south of France. It was "During a trip to Italy at the end of 1864, that Nicholas contracted what was wrongly diagnosed as rheumatism, but actually turned out to be tuberculosis."[2]

While Nixa was sleeping on the Royal Yacht A*lexandria*, a Tuberculosis-laden cloth was wafted over him.

There were many Royal deaths in that period, all by M.A.D. Medically Assisted Death. Prince Fernando of Portugal (15) died on 6 November 1861; his brother King Pedro V of Portugal (R. 1853–61) on 11 November 1861 aged 24; and their brother Heir Presumptive Prince John of Portugal (19) died on 27 December 1861 – all killed by 'Cholera or Typhoid'. Prince consort Albert was chained the Blue Room bed with the Windsor Castle windows left open, and 'died' of "Pneumonia" on 14 December 1861.

These four killings by 'Cholera or Typhoid' and 'Pneumonia' within 51 days in 1861 were all Medically Assisted Deaths and Tsesarevich 'Nixa's 1864–65 Tuberculosis was a continuation, rendering five M.A.D. killings.

1 'Empress Maria Fyodorovna', Premier site for Russian Culture, last sentence summarised.
2 Ibid.

Grand Duke Nicholas (21) was the "Royal Runt" of the family, and both the elder Danish and Russian Royal Families were keener on the stronger Tsesarevich Alexander (20), there was an agreement for action and silence, so Grand Duke Tsesarevich 'Nixa' contracted Tuberculosis on his outward journey from Denmark to Italy in October 1864.

Tsesarevich Alexander (later Tsar Alexander III) and their father Tsar Alexander II had the strongest motivations. This was confirmed by their later actions ...
After Tuberculosis was wafted over and contracted by Nixa in October 1864, it was misdiagnosed as 'Rheumatism' which made any treatment useless. The results of Tuberculosis Meningitis were typically disfiguring, placing Nixa outside of Kingship, if not dead.

Six months later, Grand Duke Nicholas' health suddenly deteriorated and he died on 24 April 1865.

Their father, Tsar Alexander II (46) travelled from St Petersburg to "Dijon" or 'Digne' in France to see his sick son, Nixa. His wife, Empress Maria Alexandrovna (40) was there with Nixa's brother, Tsesarevich Alexander (20), whom the fiancée Princess Dagmar considered to be Nixa's only friend – typical of a Runt. Nixa's younger brothers were also reportedly there, with his younger sister unconfirmed.[3]

Fiancée Princess Dagmar (17) and her mother, Louise, Queen consort of Denmark (37) and brother Prince Frederick (21) then hurried to Nice, and from there to "Dijon", but probably "Digne" arriving on 22 April 1865.

Dagmar was allowed to see her fiancée, Grand Duke Tsesarevich 'Nixa' Nicholas on 23 April 1865 and the following day he died at the age of 21.[4]

As soon as Grand Duke Tsesarevich Nicholas 'Nixa' Alexandrovich (21) died, his younger brother Tsesarevich 'Sasha' Alexander (20) proposed over the body to his grieving 'widow' Princess Dagmar. This was a faux pas as it showed planning and motivation, backed up by Tsesarevich Alexander's parents who made the same request a few days later, and again with pestering letters. It was Dagmar's mother, Louise, Queen consort of Denmark, who slowed things down pleading to "observe a year of mourning".

Seven months after Nixa's engagement, younger Tsesarevich 'Sasha' Alexander (20), had impregnated his future sister-in-law, Alexandra, Princess of Wales (19) and his brother Nixa was poisoned and ill, his death planned, misdiagnosed, then obfuscated, with the location of his death uncertain, obfuscated and ambiguous. No questions were asked as to who caused the death, who profited from it, nor the reasons and motivations behind it.[5]

3 The dying Nixa's younger siblings were Grand Duke Vladimir Alexandrovich who had just celebrated his 18th birthday on 22 April 1865, two days prior to Nixa's death; G.D. Alexei Alexandrovich (15), G.D. Maria Alexandrovna (11), G.D. Sergei Alexandrovich (7), and Grand Duke Paul Alexandrovich (4). G.D. Alexandra had died in 1849 aged 6.

4 'Empress Maria Fyodorovna', Biographies, Premier site for Russian Culture, paraphrased.

5 Nixa either died in Italy; or 22 km across the border in Nice, Provence-Alpes-Côte d'Azur, France; or from Nice, 150 km NW by road/train in "Digne, Côte d'Azur"; or from Nice, 650 km NNW west by road/train in "Dijon, Côte-d'Or".

The Russian Grand Duke Royal Runt Nicholas 'Nixa' (21) was engaged to Princess Maria Feodorovna 'Dagmar' of Denmark (16) from 20 September 1864 to his death on 24 April 1865. His younger brother then married Dagmar and became Tsar Alexander III, who ruled 1881–94.

Grand Duke Tsesarevich 'Nixa' Nicholas' Illness and Death

Like his mother, Grand Duke Tsesarevich 'Nixa' Nicholas had weak lungs, which provided sufficient reason to send him south for winter. Tuberculosis was an ideal disease for him to 'acquire' as it was 'of the lungs'. All the doctors had to do was misdiagnose Nixa's condition as something less harmful, like Rheumatism, then Bronchitis, each analysis acknowledging some symptoms and denying others, causing the required delay, as recovery required immediate attention.

Empress Maria Fyodorovna: "During a trip to Italy at the end of 1864, Nicholas contracted what was wrongly diagnosed as Rheumatism, but actually turned out to be Tuberculosis."

In Italy, Nixa developed back pain, a stiff neck, and sensitivity to noise and light, so they headed for clear weather and high hills, his whereabouts obfuscated as: Nice; in the hills between Nice and Marseilles; 100 km inland in "Digne" in "Provence-Alpes-Côte d'Azur"; or 500 km further north to "Dijon" the capital of "Côte-d'Or" in the Burgundy region.

There were also different accounts of the cause of his death including Rheumatism, Bronchitis, Meningitis, Viral Meningitis, Cerebrospinal Meningitis, Bacterial Meningitis, standard Tuberculosis, and Tuberculosis Meningitis ... all of which postponed the real treatment, which included rest and extract of Willow bark or Spiraea shrub – both 'Aspirin'.

Tuberculosis or "Consumption" caused a quarter of the deaths in Europe in the 1860s. The lungs were attacked resulting in coughing, sneezing & spitting with blood-tinged sputum, enveloping the central nervous system, resulting in fever, headache, confusion, then coma. If untreated, the various strains of mycobacteria kill more than half those infected.

Tuberculosis is treated with simple Aspirin, which reduces complications and extends life. Aspirin was available as the extract of Willow bark and the common Spiraea shrub of the family Rosaceae which grew locally in temperate areas of the Northern Hemisphere (80–100 species) which included France. Aspirin became available as the pill 'Meadowsweet' in 1898.

Tuberculosis was identified as a single disease in the 1820s and named "Tuberculosis" in 1839, then as "TB", with the active bacillus characterised in 1882, then identified as contagious in the 1880s, with the first treatment available in 1906. A cure was realised in 1946 with the antibiotic 'streptomycin'.

Rheumatism was a 'Victorian blame-all' for 200 different conditions, mainly arthritis, characterised by chronic intermittent pain mainly in the back, neck and joints, but no sensitivity to noise and light. Rheumatism was treated with warm clear weather in the hills, and herbs, so they headed for the hills in the south of France, which took several days and caused several days delay. 'Rheumatism' is no longer recognised as a disorder.

Bronchitis usually develops out of the common cold. It is an inflammation of the mucous membranes of the throat and lungs, resulting in a rough cough that produces sputum. Acute Bronchitis is caused by a virus (90% of cases) or bacteria (10%) with a rapid onset and lasts less than three weeks resulting in a sore throat, short breath, fatigue, runny nose, nasal congestion, low-grade fever, pleurisy, and the production of sputum. It usually resolves quickly, even without treatment. Chronic Bronchitis persists for three months or more, over at least two years resulting in a rough cough that produces yellow/green sputum with specks of blood. It is most commonly caused by cigarette smoking and air pollution.

Meningitis has symptoms which can develop in any order, not all the symptoms may occur, and it can be difficult to distinguish from less serious infections. Nixa could seem perfectly well, then extremely ill within hours. Symptoms include stiff neck, aching muscles and joints, aversion to bright lights, severe headache, drowsy, fever, stomach pain, vomiting, diarrhea, and cold hands and feet. Meningitis is an inflammation of the protective membranes covering the brain and spinal cord with a chance that the blood-brain barrier can be crossed.

Meningitis is considered a medical emergency.

Viral Meningitis is the most common, treated with rest and painkillers like Willow bark/ Spiraea shrub (Aspirin). There is still no vaccine against most viral meningitis and antibiotics do not help.

Cerebrospinal Meningitis is an inflammation of the lining of the brain and spinal cord, often resulting in septicemia (blood poisoning).

Bacterial meningitis is less common, but can progress from headache, fever and drowsiness to deep coma very rapidly. The bacteria causing bacterial meningitis are very common, usually harmless, and found naturally in the nose and throat of young adults. They can be spread through prolonged close contact, coughing, sneezing or kissing, where the germs overwhelm the body's immune system, causing septicemia, and the blood no longer circulating, resulting in shock and dehydration.[6]

At the time, 1864/65, treatment for infections like Meningitis, were still based on medicinal folklore prescribed over 2,000 years ago. These often included mold extracts and plant materials. With misdiagnosis, therapeutics can become antagonistic, so the doctors tended towards caution rather than regicide. Peanut mold, for instance, could be used as a poison to kill.

The modern treatment is intravenous fluids straight to the intestine, oxygen and 'Antibiosis' which weren't characterised until 1877. They were renamed 'Antibiotics' in 1942.

Tuberculosis Meningitis is an infection of the membranes which envelops the central nervous system (meninges) and is the most common form of central nervous system tuberculosis. The symptoms are fever and headaches, with an 80% chance of a stiff neck and intolerance of bright light, or 'Meningism', followed by confusion, coma, and death.

6 There is still no safe and effective vaccine against meningococcal group B bacteria, requiring immediate blood tests seeking the 'bacteria causing the infection' and the 'markers for inflammation'.

Infection begins in the lungs and spreads to the central nervous system with the inflammation concentrated towards the base of the brain and 25% crossing the blood–brain barrier. These symptoms mimic those of space-occupying lesions.

The diagnosis of Tuberculosis meningitis is still very complicated and treatment has to begin before the results are known, which today takes two weeks. Patients are treated on the basis of suspicion, as over half of TB meningitis cannot be confirmed microbiologically. Extract of Willow bark/Spiraea (Aspirin) reduces complications such as brain tissue damage and improves the chance of survival.

The Death Scenario

Nixa was given some form of contagious Tuberculosis, wafting it over his bed while he slept on his outward journey from Denmark to Italy. Symptoms arose and these were misdiagnosed as 'Rheumatism' and 'Bronchitis', or non-life threatening 'simple Tuberculosis'.

Rheumatism is a Victoria blame-all. The diagnosis of Rheumatism resulted in a delay, taking a carriage ride from Italy to the south of France, which was not 'rest', then into the hills where reports of Nixa's location are ambiguous and conflicting.

This was followed by ignoring some symptoms and watching the illness, misdiagnosed as Rheumatism and or Bronchitis, progress into fully flared 'Tuberculosis Meningitis' by acknowledging back pain & stiff neck, treating it, then acknowledging the sensitivity to noise & light and not treating it. Rather this sensitivity to light was not mentioned, the curtains were pulled, and the doctors moved around Nixa quietly.

When the traditional symptoms of simple tuberculosis didn't emerge – coughing, sneezing and spitting with blood-tinged sputum – it was recorded that it couldn't be any form of Tuberculosis.

When the symptoms of Tuberculosis Meningitis emerged with "severe headache, stiff neck and aversion to bright lights and noise, and/or cold hands and feet, aching muscles and joints, stomach pain, vomiting, diarrhea, fever, drowsy or unconscious", the extra symptoms were attributed back to Rheumatism, including myositis – muscle inflammation causing pain, tenderness, and spasm – so a hot compress was placed on the forehead. Then it's just a short wait until Nixa becomes extremely ill and there's no saving him.

Nixa had 'Tuberculosis Meningitis', to be treated with extract of Willow bark/Spiraea (Aspirin) immediately and without delay, especially in the case of a Royal, especially a Royal firstborn son. Anything else was borderline Regicide, which was the plan. When a young adult Royal Runt dies of a misdiagnosed condition, there is a high possibility it is Regicide by 'Medically Assisted Death' by M.A.D. Royal Doctors.

Viral, Cerebrospinal, Bacterial and Tuberculosis Meningitis can cause learning impairment, behavioural problems, epilepsy, restricted movement, lack of coordination, deafness, blindness, scarred skin, damaged bones and joints, kidney failure, loss of limbs, and death. If any of these conditions occurred and pretty boy Nixa was malformed beyond what was acceptable for a Tsar, his doctors could well have been required to turn the 'therapeutics' towards 'antagonistics' causing death upon request, and at the time requested.

Once Princess Dagmar had visited her fiancé Grand Duke Nixa, his Aspirin could have been exchanged for a placebo and his other treatments exchanged for antagonistics ... as they were. The typical method was concentrated snuff – cocaine with an increased amount of heroin added. Today, morphine is used. This would explain why Nixa died the day after his fiancée Princess Dagmar (17) and her mother, Louise, Queen consort of Denmark (37) arrived at his bedside. It also confirmed his identity before death.

The death of Grand Duke Tsesarevich Nicholas 'Nixa' Alexandrovich is now officially recorded as 'Cerebrospinal Meningitis', but I prefer 'Tuberculosis Meningitis' as the cause.

Grand Duke Nicholas' Death preceded by (the new) Grand Duke Alexander siring George V

The death and the illegitimate birth were to have huge consequences all the way to the last bombing raids of World War Two ...

Primarily, Tsesarevich 'Nixa' Nicholas was a "Royal Runt" who had to be replaced, and Tsesarevich 'Sasha' Alexander had to prove he wasn't a Royal Runt by getting Princess Alexandra pregnant. Marrying Alexandra's sister would prove his necessary ruthlessness. Nixa on the other hand, was a complete and resigned 'softie' – the 'identified Royal Runt'.

This also had the promise of future Russian and Danish Royal political influence over Britain – ultimately resulting in the illegitimate British King George V (1910–36) secretly evacuating the Romanov Royal Family out of Russia in 1917/18, with Windsor Castle as the base of operations, and a very bad doppelgänger Romanov Family executed ... "very bad" in that some of the Romanov remains were made up of three different bodies, which were then positively identified using Prince Philip's DNA, but Prince Philip had the most to gain from covering this story up, and owned the sphere of influence over DNA testing.

The history of the real Romanov Family escaping was meant to be discovered soon after the doppelgänger Romanov remains were exhumed. As a result, the Russian Orthodox Church has refused to confirm the remains as 'real'. Even amongst scientists the debate continues, largely motivated by continuation of their funding source, resulting in debate without integrity, in which the real Romanov Royal Family escaped to the center of Russia, the center of Ireland, and to Spain, America and Australia, with the assistance of their brother and uncle, King George V of Great Britain and Ireland.

Conveniently the Runt Heir, Grand Duke Tsesarevich 'Nixa' Nicholas died of Rheumatism, Bronchitis, Meningitis, Viral Meningitis, Cerebrospinal Meningitis, Bacterial Meningitis, Tuberculosis or Tuberculosis Meningitis on 24 April 1865 (N.S.) or 12 April 1865 (O.S.) ... finished off with cocaine and heroin,or concentrated snuff, in the various locations of Nice, the hills between Nice and Marseilles, 100 km inland in "Digne" in "Provence-Alpes-Côte d'Azur", and or 500 km further north in "Dijon", the capital of "Côte-d'Or" in the Burgundy region.

Different historical sources give five (5) different causes of death; The New-York Times reported on July 11, 1865 "an attack of bronchitis (some sources quote meningitis)" ... in five (5) different locations.

Denmark changed to the New Style Gregorian Calendar in 1700, England in 1752, Sweden in 1753, and Russia on 14 February 1918, but the Russian Orthodox Church still follows the Old Style Julian Calendar. In the 1800s, this was a 12-day difference.

Grand Duke Nixa's death was 'convenient' as it was 70 days before King George V was born.

In 1864, the Russian Royal Family had two yachts operating – the small side-wheeled paddle steamer Alexandria (1851–1906) and the twin-paddle steamer Standart (1857–92). The Standart was built for Nixa's father, Emperor Alexander II, and the Alexandria was designed entirely for speed and service.

Tsesarevich 'Sasha' Alexander (20) had sired a British Royal Prince and caused the death of his 'friend' and elder brother Tsesarevich 'Nixa' Nicholas (21), rendering Sasha the future Tsar Alexander III of Russia (R. 1881–94).

There was plenty of motivation for Sasha to remove his sensitive weak-lunged elder Royal Runt brother Nixa from the throne, and before Nixa took that Throne and weakening all of Russia. This scenario also had complicity from their father, Tsar Alexander II (1855–81) resulting in a complicity of silence to this day.

Alexandra, Princess of Wales' (19) younger sister, Princess Maria Feodorovna 'Dagmar' of Denmark (16) was engaged to Grand Duke 'Nixa' Nicholas (21) from 20 September 1864 to his death on 24 April 1865.

According to 'historical records', while terminally ill from Tuberculosis Meningitis passed off as Rheumatism, then an attack of Bronchitis, Nixa's dying wish was for his fiancée of 7 months, Princess Dagmar (17), to marry his younger brother Tsesarevich Alexander (20).

However, the scheming for this also came from 'Nixa's parents, the Emperor and Empress of Russia, in the days after his death, with the blame continually shifted between the players, creating four or more versions of how Tsesarevich 'Sasha' Alexander (20) proposed to Princess Dagmar (17). This added another layer of confusion.

The task was now to unravel the scheme which gave the Russian Royal Family influence over the British Royal family, and the future King George V (R. 1910–36), who was about to be born in 70 days.

It was as if the schemers had advanced knowledge of the 1917 Russian Revolution and the Communist takeover which would ultimately abolish their Romanov Monarchy on 15 March 1917. For this they needed an escape route, so they were breeding one.

Since nothing in politics happens by accident, and everything at this level is planned, none of this is out of the question, and all of this is plausible – as a high-level briefing. It was known these events were due to occur in half-a-century, 52 years, and to prepare for them, and the 1917 Russian Revolution was supported by the cuckolded Edward VII, and engineered to occur in George V's reign, as retribution.

Since Births, Deaths and Marriages are the Royal Families modus operandi, it was Births, Deaths and Marriages that were planned to engineer each other's history.

The fiancée-widow "Princess Dagmar accompanied Nicholas' grieving parents, the Emperor and Empress of Russia, to the Battenberg's Heiligenberg Castle in Hesse-Darmstadt where they spent several days together at the end of April 1865. This was where the idea was first [third] muted of the near widow, Princess Dagmar, marrying the new Heir to the Russian throne, Nicholas' brother Tsesarevich Alexander."[7]

14 km south of Darmstadt, the Battenbergs Heiligenberg Castle has panoramic views of the Rhineland as far as the Palatinate. The Battenbergs were the entertaining hosts, but really they were great extortionists. The Battenbergs changed their name to Mountbatten in 1917 at the same time the Romanovs were removed in 1917.

There are now three versions on how Tsesarevich 'Sasha' Alexander (20) proposed to Princess Dagmar (17):

1. Tsesarevich Nicholas' dying wish;
2. Tsesarevich Alexander's proposal over his elder brother's body as soon as he had died;
3. Plans of the Emperor and Empress of Russia at Battenberg's Heiligenberg Castle a few days later;
4. Continual pestering letters from the Emperor and Empress of Russia to Princess Dagmar as though, for them, it had to happen.

Prince Louis Battenberg (1854–1921) was 10 at the time of their visit. The Emperor and Empress of Russia continued visiting the Battenbergs at Heiligenberg Castle until 1914, as themselves, their children, and their grandchildren.

Although the Battenbergs/Mountbattens were illegitimate, they held some sway in their Heiligenberg Castle as it was on one of Earth's Secret Lines of Destiny, manifesting eight (8) Kaisers. This conquering occult line was proven to have held sway over Europe.

The Battenbergs were an illegitimate branch of their own German Royal Family, and survived with Prince Louis Battenberg emigrating to England soon after. He was then admitted by the Board of Admiralty without a medical certificate, contrary to regulations, and joined the British Royal Navy on 3 October 1868, aged 14, by enlisting as a naval cadet on Nelson's old flagship, HMS Victory, which was permanently moored in Portsmouth across the water from the Isle of Wight.

This immediately made Prince Louis Battenberg a naturalised British subject with unlimited shore leave to access Osborne House, where Queen Victoria lived.

Prince Louis Battenberg then teamed up with his son, Lord Louis Mountbatten, and in the 1953 Disney movie 'Peter Pan', they are shown as 'raconteurs and racketeers' in 'Twin Raccoon suits'.

Inviting Prince Louis Battenberg to England was to prove one of the single biggest disasters for the illegitimate side of the British Royal family, but it was to prove Her Majesty's Victory for her firstborn Marcos Manoel, as the Flat Lie British Royal family unravelled each de-generation.

That's what you get with a Racketeering Raconteur, especially when they're a foreign Royal from an illegitimate branch, specialising in extortion and sexual compromise. That Battenberg was raised on the 'Conquering Occult Line' added another subconscious compulsion to the mix. This bore influence through history accordingly.

The Battenberg/Mountbatten extortion of the British Royal family began with:

i. King Edward VII of England was not the firstborn son, was born bigamously, and was illegitimate, and therefore three times an illegitimate King of England (R. 1901–10);

ii. The already married Alexandra, Princess of Wales (of England, but Danish) copulated with Tsesarevich Alexander 'Sasha' of Russia to conceive the British Prince George, who became King George V of England ruling 1910–36;

iii. King Edward VII of England did not sire King George V of England, who was illegitimate;

iv. King Edward VII's eldest son was Prince Eddy whose death was faked on 14 January 1892 and lived in Glamis Castle. Eddy was replaced with the illegitimate Russian-Danish Prince George who became King George V of England.

The Battenberg/Mountbatten extortion of the Russian and Danish Royal Families began with :

1. Emperor Alexander II of Russia and his second-born son Tsesarevich 'Sasha' Alexander regicided the 'Royal Runt' Grand Duke 'Nixa' Nicholas (21) on 24 April 1865; and

2. The Russian Grand Duke Tsesarevich 'Sasha' Alexander's proposal to the Danish Princess Maria Feodorovna 'Dagmar' of Denmark (16) over the body of their brother and fiancée, the Royal Runt Grand Duke 'Nixa' Nicholas (21) on 24 April 1865;

3. This was immediately followed by proposals, debriefings and further proposals by the Russian Royal Family to the Danish Princess Maria Feodorovna 'Dagmar' of Denmark (17) in Battenberg's Heiligenberg Castle, an extortion center, usually sexually based.

This placed the illegitimate German Royal Prince Louis Battenberg (1854–1921) and his son Lord Louis Battenberg/Mountbatten (1900–79) as raconteurs and racketeers at the forefront of the British, Russian and Danish Royal families.

Information regarding the illegitimacy of the future King George V was known by the Danish, Russian and German Royal Families, and hidden by the British Royal family.

This was to prove a huge influence over territories, and the wars over territories, from the concurrent Schleswig-Holstein Wars to the end of WWII.

"After Dagmar returned to Denmark in 1865, the Emperor and Empress of Russia continued to support the idea of her engagement to their new eldest surviving son and Heir ... Louise, Queen consort of Denmark then suggested they all wait until the official year of mourning has come to an end, and 'Who can say now whether, by that time, there will not be a change in Sasha's feelings, which came to him in the first moments of pain and anguish ... Let him tell her his decision himself'."[8]

Cover then had to be developed for Tsesarevich Alexander to distance himself from the murder and it came in this form ...
Over the next year (April 1865–66) Tsesarevich Alexander (20/21) fell in love with one of his mother's ladies-in-waiting, Princess Maria Elimovna Mescherskaya (21/22).[9]

When the year of mourning ended on 24 April 1866, Tsesarevich Alexander refused point blank to marry Princess Dagmar. His father Emperor Alexander II explained it was his duty, and this came before personal feelings.

Princess Maria Mescherskaya (22) was then introduced to the Russian industrialist, Count Pavel Pavlovich Demidov (27). The 2nd Prince of San Donato moved to Vienna, and they married soon after on 1 June 1867. Princess Maria then died in Vienna two days after giving birth to their first son on 8 August 1868.

During this arrangement, Emperor Alexander II directed and ordered his son to travel to Denmark on his personal Royal Yacht Standart (1857–92) and propose to Princess Dagmar. The Standart was a 230-foot 895-ton twin-paddle steamer that could do 6 knots in calm fresh water, but through the Gulf of Finland and the Baltic Sea, it averaged 3.25 knots and took 9 days to complete the 800-mile journey.

Obviously Emperor Alexander II wanted his son to put his best foot forward, so Tsesarevich Alexander arrived to Denmark on the Standart in June 1866, and proposed to Princess Dagmar the same month. She left Denmark with him on 22 September to Peterhof Palace (the "Russian Versailles") in St Petersburg. 18½ months after Tsesarevich Nicholas 'Nixa' had died, Sasha and Dagmar were married on 9 November 1866, in St. Petersburg.

There are many photos of the two Royal Family's relaxing at each other's residences, yet Princess Dagmar's parents cited financial and domestic reasons for not attending the wedding. It was more likely King Christian IX of Denmark and his Queen knew their new Russian relatives had Regicided their son-in-law to be, Grand Duke Nicholas, albeit 'Nixa the Royal Runt'.

Only Dagmar's brother Prince Frederick of Denmark attended with a letter from their mother to Dagmar: "Difficult moments await you, and you will think them horrible ... give yourself up to the will of your husband in everything and do not protest even at the most unimaginable things, but convince yourself that such is the will of God. You will experience physical tortures ..."[10]

The second-in-line to the Russian throne was now first-in-line, plus he had sired the second-in-line to the British Throne, who would also soon become first-in-line to the British Throne from 14 January 1892.

[9] Princess Maria Elimovna Meshcherskaya (28 Feb. 1844–8 August 1868)
[10] 'Empress Maria Fyodorovna', Biographies, Premier site for Russian Culture, paraphrased.

The new Russian Heir, Tsesarevich 'Sasha' Alexander, had married his older brother's fiancée, Princess Dagmar, the sister of Alexandra, Princess of Wales, mother of his child.

The second-in-line to the British Throne would now have to become first-in-line to the British Throne, and for that, Prince Eddy had to die, or his death had to be faked, which is exactly what happened on 14 January 1892.

It was a Royal Mafia operation, and those operational in it were only told enough of the story to motivate them. Few had the overall picture ...

In full Mafia fashion, Tsesarevich 'Sasha' Alexander had sired a child with the enemy, killed a family member, married the fiancée-widow, taken the Crown, and watched his son take the competition's Crown. It was a perfect hit, a Tactical Exercise Without Troops – a TEWT.

Like most Mafia and Royal exercises, it began and ended in the bedroom, with 'Deaths, Births and Marriages', which the Royals advertise as "Births, Deaths and Marriages".

The Danish had married into the British Throne and bred with the Russians, thus breeding the Germans out of the British Throne altogether – as per Alexandra, Princess of Wales' wish!

This was beginning to look like a Danish-Russian breeding coup over the British Throne, and indeed it was.

This gives credence to the Danish and Russians setting up the Jack the Ripper murders to remove Prince Eddy, as per Walter Sickert's belief ... and it was just such a coup.

So now we should firm up the details of the absence of Bertie, Prince of Wales during the time his wife, the Danish Alexandra, Princess of Wales conceived Prince George of England.

This affected the legitimacy & reigns of King Edward VII (R. 1901–10), Prince Eddy, and King George V of the United Kingdom and the British Dominions, Emperor of India (R. 1910–36).

The Black Moon month for Conceiving a King

For those in the know about conceiving kings, 'the Black Moon conception of a Monarch' is very important to the Wiccans as well as the Danish, Swedish and Russian Royalty. It is part of their Myth and Legend – part of their King-making.

'Black Moon months' have two New Moons in the same Calendar month, and are rare, but in September 1864 there was a New Moon at 6:08 a.m. GMT on Thursday 1 September, and a second New Moon at 10:43 p.m. GMT on Friday 30 September 1864.

This was the same under Sea Time (Admiralty) and the Train times.

The same in local Copenhagen Land Time, "CLT" was 50 minutes later from 6:58 a.m. CLT on Thursday 1 September to 11:34 p.m. CLT on Friday 30 September 1864.

GMT was discussed in 1840, but not certified until 1884 when Greenwich got the green light to become 0°0'0"E Longitude, East-West. Copenhagen didn't align itself to GMT+1 until 1 January 1894.

Greenwich is located at 51°28'45"N, 0°0'0"E. Copenhagen is located at 55°40'34"N, 12°34'6"E. Copenhagen is 4° further North and 12° further East.

12°/360° = 0.033 x 1,560 minutes in a day = 52 minutes difference.

Bernstorff Palace was only 5 miles NNE of Copenhagen so it is negligible – 0°4'35"N, 0°0'1"E.

On 15 September 1864, the Full Moon in Greenwich was at 9:09 p.m. and in Copenhagen at exactly 10:00 p.m. The difference of 51 minutes accounted for the Latitude +54 minutes and the Longitude of - 3 minutes.

With a choice of 50, 51 or 52 minutes, at the time the Danish adjusted their clocks 51 minutes ahead, so that their sunrises and sunsets occurred at the same time as London.

To Russians, Scandinavians and Wiccans, any magic worked during this period of a Black Moon month is deemed "especially powerful".

The Russian Monarchies had a similar outlook ... 'This was a time to conceive a King', and will look preferentially upon any King conceived in a Black Moon month. This was affirmed and confirmed to Joseph Gregory Hallett by a Russian Prince in 2011.

If a younger brother had been conceived in a Black Moon month, Russians, Scandinavians and Wiccans would depose the elder brother, especially if he is the 'Royal Runt'.

Since the Russian Tsesarevich 'Sasha' Alexander was the siring father of a Black Moon King, even though he was to become a British Monarch, it was only natural for Tsesarevich 'Sacha' Alexander to depose his elder brother, Grand Duke Nicholas 'Nixa' ... in April 1865.

Carrying this further, the Russians assisted in deposing Britain's eldest Heir son, Prince Eddy (1885–92) in favour of the Black Moon-conceived Prince George, and continued that assistance making him King George V of England, despite Prince Eddy surviving his 'death', and despite their official father, the non-siring Bertie, Prince of Wales who became King Edward VII (R. 1901–10) known to be the illegitimate son of Baron Lionel Nathan Rothschild, who owned the Bank of England and the Central Bank of England.

It was Bertie, Prince of Wales' illegitimacy that made all of this possible, and brought all the parties into a cohesive collusion, which included the British Royal Navy.

If we look to their futures, the lives of the entire Russian Monarchies were at stake. This scenario turned favourable for the Russian Royal Wiccans, as it was King George V (R. 1910–36) who aided the escape of "his brother's Romanov Family" out of Russia in 1917/18. This was covered up by King George V officially doing the opposite and refusing them, but running the pro-Romanov operation from Windsor Castle.

Russia did not have a Black Moon month in 1864, since it was still on the Old Style Julian Calendar, but the Black Moon month did exist in Denmark and Sweden, so the engagement of Princess Dagmar of Denmark dictated the location to conceive, and Wiccan Sweden was chosen as the distraction for Bertie, Prince of Wales.

In Denmark, the Black Moon month was from the morning of 1 September to the evening of 30 September 1864. September 1864 was hugely important for the Wiccan Royals.

In Denmark, the Black Moon month lasted between the two New moons from 6:58 a.m. Thursday 1 September to 11:34 p.m. Friday 30 September 1864 CLT, giving 29 days, 16 hours and 36 minutes to 'Conceive a New King under the Black Moon'.[11]

The UK, Denmark and Sweden were on the New Style Gregorian Calendar while Russia was 12 days behind on the Old Style Julian Calendar and did not have a Black Moon month. That is why the soirée-conception had to happen in Denmark; Sweden was an alternative, but it wasn't home soil.

So the 9-day journey on the Royal paddle steamer Standart or Alexandria from St Petersburg to Denmark, would take the Romanovs 21 days to arrive, and on their return journey, they would arrive 3 days before they left.

[11] In Copenhagen Land Time (CLT) on Thursday 1 September 1864, the sun rose at 5:05 a.m., the New moon rose 25 minutes later at 5:30 a.m. It was a New moon at 6:58 a.m. with barely noticeable 0.2% illumination. The New moon set at 6:29 p.m., the sun set 25 minutes later at 6:54 p.m., then Civil Twilight carried on until 7:32 p.m., Nautical Twilight until 8:21 p.m. & Astronomical Twilight until 9:17 p.m.

On Thursday 15 September 1864, the sun rose at 5:32 a.m.. the Full moon rose at 5:46 p.m. in a huge orange ball, the sun set 31 minutes later at 6:17 p.m., Twilight carried on until 6:54 p.m., 7:39 p.m. & 8:28 p.m., then the moon became full at exactly 10:00 p.m. with 99.9% illumination. This was a Hunter's moon, a Harvest moon and a perfect day. The moon set at 4:57 a.m. with continuous twilight until the sun rose 35 minutes later at 5:32 a.m.

On Friday 30 September 1864, the New moon rose at 5:35 a.m. followed by sunrise 26 minutes later at 6:01 a.m. with 0.3% illumination. The New moon set at 5.10 p.m., 28 minutes later the sun set at 5:38 p.m., Twilight carried on until 6:14 p.m., 6:57 p.m. and 7:42 p.m. The new moon was at 11:34 p.m. CLT.

Removing Bertie, Prince of Wales out of Denmark

Historians describe Bertie, Prince of Wales' typical day as "hunting, feasting, then spending his evenings with a concubine".[12] So by arrangement he was occupied with this, and at some point in the last 10 days of September 1864, Bertie, Prince of Wales would be exited out of Denmark to Sweden to carry out his typical day in another location. This occurred on 26 September 1864. Bertie was away 24 days until 20 October 1864.

From Copenhagen it is 6 miles north to Bernstorff Palace and the formal engagement betrothal, then 17 miles NNW to Fredensborg Palace, from where it is 10 miles WNW to Kronborg Castle, being the "Elsinore Castle" in Shakespeare's Hamlet ~ Hallett, surrounded by moats and the Helsingør/Elsinore Harbour. From Copenhagen it is 25 miles north to Kronborg. From Kronborg Castle to Stockholm, Sweden it is 465 miles NNE.

Fredensborg Palace was designed as a hunting lodge and pleasure palace in the middle of the Østrup Vang forest with hunting paths hewn out of the forest. From just outside the front door you could shoot in seven directions, and by walking another 300 to 600 yards you could shoot in sixty directions. So Fredensborg Palace was a desired location for 'a hunting feasting and pleasure hound' like Bertie, Prince of Wales.

Fredensborg Palace was known as the 'Palace of Peace' and 'Peace Hill', where important events like formal engagement betrothals, weddings, anniversaries and birthdays took place, but it wasn't used as such for Grand Duke Nicholas, because 'Nixa' was the 'Royal Runt', and due to be killed off. Instead, Bernstorff Palace was used.

On Monday 26 September 1864, Bertie, Prince of Wales (23) boarded the Royal Yacht Osborne at Kronborg Castle and paddle steamed off to Stockholm, Sweden doing 3 knots and jolly (ignorant). Bertie, PoW was to be away 24 days until 20 October 1864.

This left 100–110 hours, or 4 full days & 4–14 hours to conceive in the Black Moon month, which ended at 6 minutes to midnight on Friday 30 September 1864.

This Black Moon magic had been drummed into the Russians and Scandinavians in children's fairy tales and legends, especially amongst the noble class. So these Nobles and Royals purposefully arranged events to create "their own king" for "their own purpose".

The sun was setting around 5:45 p.m. and the twilight carried on until the last light left around 8:00 p.m.

Alexandra, Princess of Wales (19) conceived a child to the Russian Tsesarevich 'Sasha' Alexander (20) around 2:34 p.m. on Thursday 29 September 1864, with 33 hours to spare on the Black Moon month, rendering a completely New Monarch, and Monarchy, this time with Russian-Danish controlling influence over the British Royal family, who were left holding more & more intergenerational shame adding to their Flat Lie Royal status. The Russians and Danish were now holding the all-powerful 'wild card' – to be found in the makings of King George V of the United Kingdom and the British Dominions, Emperor of India (R. 1910–36).

[12] J. B. Priestley, 'The Edwardians', Heinemann, 1970: "He had a tremendous zest for pleasure", p. 25.

The British Royal Yachts and Escort

HMS Aurora accompanied the Royal Yacht Osborne to and from Stockholm and took nine (9) days to return to Denmark, rather than five (5) days. HMS Aurora's Petty Officer James Palk Cutler recorded that the Royal Yacht Osborne took an extra 4 days to return. Much later, Petty Officer Cutler became Lieut. Commander James Cutler.

The hidden agenda was that Bertie, Prince of Wales would not return to Denmark until 0.01 a.m. 19 October 1864, or later. This ensured, by 'Ship's Record', that Bertie, Prince of Wales was definitively not the siring male with his now pregnant wife, Alexandra, Princess of Wales. This was supported by the well-known fact that they hated each other.

The hidden agenda was the Wiccan Black Moon magic, run by the Russian, Danish and Swedish Royals and Nobles, and thus, like Hamlet, a 'King' was created for their own purpose, by design, and for the further demise of the British Flat Lie Royal family – illegitimate from Bertie, Prince of Wales, King Edward VII on ... so from 1841.

In 1864, two British Royal Yachts were operating, both paddle steamers – Royal Yacht Osborne (ex-HMY Victoria and Albert) and the HMY Victoria and Albert II.

The twin paddle steamer, HMY Victoria and Albert was launched on 25 April 1843. It was owned and operated by the British Navy as the first royal yacht powered by steam. At 1,034 tons, with a 430 hp engine and 2 guns, it made 20 voyages, then scrapped in 1868.

This was replaced by the HMY Victoria and Albert II as the 'Royal Yacht of the Sovereign of the United Kingdom', launched on 16 January 1855, and owned and operated by the Royal Navy until 1900. It was a 360-foot 2,470-ton, 240-crew paddle steamer that could make 15 knots in ideal conditions. She was scrapped in 1904.

HMY Victoria and Albert was renamed Osborne and replaced by HMY Victoria and Albert II on 16 January 1855. This was useful confusion as 'Osborne' was the name of Queen Victoria's main residence on the Isle of Wight, where she lived almost all the time. Queen Victoria did not live in London and visited France more than London. In 1864, Royal Yacht Osborne was at the beck & call of Bertie, Prince of Wales, 1855–68.

History-making ships and buildings are often destroyed by the British Royal family, after they have made that history, and the Royal Yacht Osborne was no exception, destroyed in 1868, three (3) years after the Russo-Danish 29 September 1864 conception of the British King George V, with his birth on 3 June 1865, 33 days short of a full 40 week term.

Since most of our Royal History has been obfuscated to maintain a series of illegitimates occupying the position of 'Royal Family' so that no true royal can fulfil that roll, it is best to get the travel plans from escort tender vessel Frigates supporting the Royal Yachts.

HMS Aurora was a wooden screw steam powered Frigate built in 1861. It sailed from Plymouth on 17 December 1863. Two days later, HMS Aurora anchored off Osborne House on the Isle of Wight where Queen Victoria was in residence, as was normal. HMS Aurora remained there for the two winter months, 19 December 1863–25 February 1864, then made its way back towards Plymouth, to Portsmouth.

Six months later, very early on the morning of 28 August 1864, HMS Aurora left Portsmouth and took nine (9) days, averaging 3½ knots, to sail 750 miles to the Kattegat, the sea between Denmark and Sweden, arriving on 6 September 1864 in rendezvous with the Royal Yacht Osborne, where Bertie, Prince of Wales and his wife, Alexandra, Princess of Wales were onboard.

HMS Aurora then acted as escort during a visit to Copenhagen, Denmark, 6 miles south of Bernstorff Palace, where Tsesarevich 'Nixa' Nicholas proposed to Princess Dagmar on Sunday 20 September 1864.

To pick up Bertie, Prince of Wales from Fredensborg pleasure Palace and hunting lodge on Monday 26 September 1864, HMS Aurora and the Royal Yacht Osborne moored in Helsingør Harbour and Bertie travelled 10 miles WNW to the coast to Shakespeare's Elsinore Castle (Helsingør).

Both ships, the escort tender, HMS Aurora and the Royal Yacht Osborne then left Denmark for Stockholm, Sweden, 465 miles NNE ... to be away 24 days.

The Royal Yacht Osborne and the tender HMS Aurora then left Stockholm on Tuesday 11 October 1864 and took nine (9) days at an average of 2 knots (not 3½ knots) to travel the 465 mile return journey.

If they had travelled at the usual 3½ knots, it would have taken five (5) days, but they would have arrived in a time frame where Bertie, Prince of Wales could have sired Prince George. So Bertie was away 24 days, and his return journey took an extra four (4) days.

Bertie, Prince of Wales arrived at the Elsinore Harbour on Thursday 20 October 1864, a day or two after the last possible time of conception.

Even then, Alexandra, Princess of Wales delayed meeting her husband, Bertie, Prince of Wales for another day, until Friday 21 October, by which time she was 23 days pregnant. Not showing, Bertie's suspicions were not raised.

Danes, Swedes & Russians were playing the British, delaying the Prince of Wales' return. Staff and crew of the Royal Yacht Osborne and the tender HMS Aurora were complicit, maintaining a painfully slow journey to ensure the short fat slow illegitimate "insane" couchon Bertie, Prince of Wales could not possibly have sired the second son, and the Ship's Record would confirm this with the Admiralty ... as it did.

That it turned out to be a boy can be planned with the male taking long walks and drams of whiskey, with Tsesarevich 'Sasha' Alexander of Russia, now Grand Duke, drinking whiskey, walking the walk, and talking the talk with Alexandra, Princess of Wales who was ready, willing and waiting, as she hated her short fat slow couchon husband.

The Royal Yacht Osborne and the tender HMS Aurora then left Denmark's Elsinore and spent the next nine (9) days sailing 750 miles, averaging 3.5 knots to Portsmouth, England, arriving on Saturday 29 October 1864.[13]

Alexandra, Princess of Wales' Pregnancies – King George V of England is Illegitimate

Alexandra, Princess of Wales had a history of premature births. Her first child, Prince Eddy, was born two (2) months premature. As an adult he looked as though he had been born premature. The rest of her children were born 4–6 weeks premature and looked far more normal.

Alexandra, Princess of Wales' pregnancy lasted from Thursday 29 September 1864 to Saturday 3 June 1865 (N.S.), 33 days short of a full 40 week term ... 35 weeks & 2 days.

If King George V was conceived by Bertie, Prince of Wales on Friday 21 October 1864, he would have been 8 weeks premature, but George showed no signs of looking prematurely deformed like his elder brother Prince Eddy, born a full two (2) months premature. Rather, Prince George looked like he was born a fully formed baby.

Tracing back from 'Birth to Conception', dates are always 40 weeks, or 280 days ± 18 days, so 262–298 days. Bertie had to be sent away for longer than this, and was not allowed to return until "after 18 October 1864". In addition, Princess Alexandra delayed seeing her husband Bertie for an additional day, from 20–21 October 1864.

This placed the conception of King George V in the remaining period of the Black Moon Month, 26–30 September 1864, in the period when Bertie, Prince of Wales was away in Sweden for 24 days, 26 September–20 October, and separate from his wife, Alexandra, Princess of Wales for an extra day, resulting in 25 days apart from 26 September to 21 October 1864.

30 September at 11:34 p.m. ended the Black Moon Month ... + 18 days was 18 October at 11:34 p.m. 21 October 1864 was three (3) days outside the limits of Bertie, Prince of Wales siring baby Prince George, resulting in a UK King George V who was Russian.

When Alexandra, Princess of Wales conceived at 2:34 p.m. on Thursday 29 September 1864, then met her husband Bertie, Prince of Wales on Friday 21 October 1864, 23 days after the central ±18 days of conception, Alexandra conceived five (5) days outside the limits of legitimacy for the new baby Prince George.

Bertie, Prince of Wales, who became King Edward VII and ruled 1901–10, could not have sired King George V who ruled after him, 1910–36.

Alexandra, Princess of Wales gave birth on 3 June 1865 (N.S.) to the illegitimate 4½ week premature Prince George Frederick Ernest Albert. This was the future King George V, whose biological father Sasha had just murdered his elder brother, and proposed over Nixa's dead body to his fiancée-widow Dagmar, to take the Throne of Russia.

King George V of the United Kingdom and the British Dominions, Emperor of India, and Tsar Nicholas II of Russia were first cousins and half-brothers, which is why they looked so alike, even identical, to the extent they swap uniforms and fooled each other's staff.

The Royal Society (Illuminati) expose Bertie, Prince of Wales as a Cuckold

The Illuminati existed as the "Invisible College of Initiates" (British), and the 'New Reformed Invisible College of Initiates', who agreed to make themselves visible and fund 'The Royal Society', which was British, but full of repatriated Europeans.

"William Shakespeare" was an anagram for "I am the Will that Shakes the Spear" to "Shake the Spear of History" . Throughout their "Shake the Spear of History", simultaneously creating "William Shakespeare", they joined the different 'Gaelic forms of language', the Old Irish, Old Picts, and dialects spoken all over the British Isles, to form one English language.

"Shakespeare" was the Illuminati's way of modifying the English language with 'double entendres' allowing something to be said, drawn, or made, and once interpreted, showing a second deeper meaning revealing the secret – in this case, an illegitimate English King George V.

This was all part of the Kabbalah of the English language – or Cabala of the English language, English Cabal, or Stable of Knowledge. Shakespeare coined over 1,700 common English words by changing nouns into verbs, verbs into adjectives, connecting words never before used together, adding prefixes and suffices, and devising new words wholly original.

Through this, the 'Invisible College of Initiates' were able to create pillars for the future – the foundation of the powerful United Kingdom which became an 'Empire' where their citizens spoke one language, which became the language most spoken worldwide.

This restored the principal of Babylon's 'Tower of Babel' where the old Biblical God displays the Languages of Men. The purpose of the Tower of Babel and uniform common English was to create Anarchy! Part of this anarchy was revealing corruption in Kingship!

In the Illuminati Shakespeare's Elizabethan Tragedy, Hamlet, "Elsinore Castle" is the real Danish 'Kronborg Castle' on Helsingør ~ Elsinore Harbour. This is where Bertie, Prince of Wales boarded for Sweden, 26 September–20 October 1864, to ensure he did not sire Prince George, King George V of the United Kingdom and the British Dominions, Emperor of India (R. 1910–36).

The Illuminati's Shakespeare was dealing with 'Man and his Soul'. Thus, Bertie, Prince of Wales became the Illuminati's fly on the wall stripped of his wings, stripes and epaulets in Shakespeare's Hamlet.

'Art imitates life' when the ghost of Hamlet's father spoke in Act 1, Scene 5:
"Wouldst thou not stir in this. Now, Hamlet, hear. Tis given out that, sleeping in my orchard, a serpent stung me. So the whole ear of Denmark is by a forged process of my death rankly abused. But know, thou noble youth, the serpent that did sting thy father's life now wears his crown."

Just as a Monarch without their 'hat, gloves and shoes' can be treated as a Commoner; a Monarch stripped of their 'wings, stripes and epaulets' is not to be treated as a Monarch, but as any port in a storm.

This 'any port in a storm' is represented in the Illuminati's Disney movie 'Peter Pan' where Captain Hook ~ Bertie, Prince of Wales who became Edward VII, is shown through the porthole with 'a cold', then presenting the Pirate as the tattooed 'Sailor Prince' George, as though he was proudly presenting his son. So it was King Edward VII presenting George, Prince of Wales, who was known as the 'Sailor Prince'.

Bertie, Prince of Wales became King Edward VII and ruled 1901–10, and went on to murder his elder legitimate brother, Prince le Favori Marcos Manoel, King John II of England, who ruled 1869–1910.

The Royal Society have Queen Elizabeth II and Princess Anne as head patrons, with the goal to remove Governments and just have a Monarchy. In October 2012, one of their life-long and dedicated members approached Joseph Gregory Hallett in Holland stating: "Alexandra, Princess of Wales was known to be having sex with horses. This was known by Queen Elizabeth II and Princess Anne, who held this to be true".

'Sex with horses' is also code for a 'dragon' and could be codified as 'a dragon'. Alexandra, Princess of Wales was an excellent dancer and horsewoman, riding while pregnant. Her speciality was tandem carriage driving with one horse in front of the other. She was also photographed with a dragon-style hairdo and veil.

The 1953 'Peter Pan' movie presents the conception of King George V in two dragons. If we take Captain Hook as Bertie, Prince of Wales/King Edward VII and the tattooed Pirate as the tattooed "Sailor Prince" George/King George V, then the Disney Sailor's two dragon tattoos tell the story of George V's birth. One tattooed dragon has two tails indicating 'two fathers', and the other dragon is a dancing pregnant woman giving birth to a dark figure – the illegitimate 'Sailor Prince' King George V, conceived in a Black Moon month – hence the dark figure.

The September 1864 Black Moon month occurred while Denmark & Germany were at war. The line on the pregnant dragon's belly is actually the Schleswig-Holstein Line, formally named the "Schleswig-Holstein Question". This questionable line divides southern Denmark (the Dragon) from northern Germany (the dancing pregnant woman).

The German-Danish Line or German-Danish Question was flaring up during the time of King George V's conception. In Shakespearean Illuminati double entendre fashion, this conception was in Question and flared up as 'a dragon flares breathing fire'.

With these insights, history was played out on multiple levels simultaneously, and able to be illustrated as an allegory, directed by the Illuminati's Walt Disney as a cartoon movie. Walt Disney knew what to include and how to include it, right down to the detail, which he placed on the tattooed pirate in his movie 'Peter Pan', released within a year of the death of King George VI, who died on New Zealand Day, 6 February 1952. Peter Pan was released on 5 February 1953 by RKO Pictures ~ 'Regal King O', or 'Regal King does not exist'.

The "Schleswig-Holstein Question" resulted in the First Schleswig War, 24 March 1848–1851, where Prussian forces crossed the German border into southern Denmark, then the Second Schleswig War, 1 February–30 October 1864, which enveloped the Black Moon conception month of September 1864, even though King Christian IX of Denmark, father of Alexandra, Princess of Wales, had signed the preliminaries of a peace treaty renouncing his rights to the approximately 340 by 70 miles of duchies, including the cities of Hamburg and Hannover, to the King of Prussia and the Emperor of Austria, on 1 August 1864.

At the time, Queen Victoria's first husband was Blind King George V of Hannover, who ruled Hannover 1851–66, 125 miles south of the Schleswig-Holstein line.

Royal Excuses

Author, Richard Hough, 1922–99, offers the excuse in Edward & Alexandra, Their Private & Public Lives, 1992, that Alexandra, Princess of Wales lied about the dates she conceived, and consequently the dates she was due 'because she didn't want Queen Victoria pestering her about the birth'.

Richard Hough wrote 90 books in his lifetime and was accredited with being an historian who specialised in maritime history, yet he had joined the RAF from school, but was stationed near Hollywood, USA. Most of Hough's books were children's books, and not about maritime events, nor about Royalty. Being a children's story writer, he came across the Russian and Scandinavian Black Moon months in fairy tales.

Captain Hook as King Edward VII (R. 1901–10) proudly introduces his illegitimate non-son, the tattooed "Sailor Prince" and future King George V (R. 1910–36). His mother, Alexandra, Princess of Wales with dragon hairdo, watches as her Danish-Russian tattoed prodigy takes the German-British Crown and degenerates it.

Richard Hough was a British Air Force and Naval Intelligence Agent. Most of these agents look nothing like it, and do nothing like it. Intelligence calls that "cover" and "deep cover", so when they are called up, they appear 'independent'. It was as if Richard Hough was commissioned to write propaganda for the British Royal Family and indeed he was. He also wrote under the pen name "Bruce Carter".

Contrary to Richard Hough's statement attributed to Alexandra, Princess of Wales – Queen Victoria hated babies, stated they were the ugliest of things, referred to them as "frogs", and only saw her nine (9) official children once they were three months old, then once every three months, and then briefly. Queen Victoria: "I have no adoration for very little babies ... An ugly baby is a very nasty object ... and the prettiest is frightful when undressed ... Leopold ... is the ugliest ... I think he is uglier than he ever was ... I never cared for you near as much as you seem to about the baby; I care much more for the younger ones (poor Leopold perhaps excepted) ... We used to constantly see you and Bertie in bed and bathed – and we only see the younger ones – one in three months perhaps."[14]

Tsar Alexander III of Russia sired King George V of the United Kingdom and the British Dominions, Emperor of India (R. 1910–36).

This 'Addendum One in support of Joseph Gregory Hallett declares the Illegitimate Conception of King George V of the United Kingdom' supporting the 'Statement of Claim in support of Joseph Gregory Hallett declares the Illegitimate Conception of King George V of the United Kingdom' is a worthy indicator of the truth, equal to and or above all prior and current mechanisms of truth, as first witnessed on 1 November 2019, and as registered on 17 November 2019 in the Common Law Court as OTH / 19 / 50306.
